John Eric Steiner is a multimedia artist who relies on the language of cinema to create dreamlike moments. Future Memories is a series of videos, installations and objects that merge old and new media. Combining analog and digital technology including: slide projectors, raspberry pis, and a late 1970’s phone receiver, he pushes the limits of small machines within a context of techno-consumerism. Steiner’s work explores our complicated relationship with technology.

Future Memories opens September 2nd.
On view through January 30th.

Sponsored by: Sheraton Erie Bayfront Hotel and MenajErie Studio

David King is a contemporary artist from Cleveland, Ohio who focuses on translating photographic images into vibrant paintings; created with oil paint, oil stick, chalk pastel and acrylic. In this body of work, King was inspired by a treasure of 50+ year old family movie reels. Often unrelated figures from multiple photos are combined to create new, otherworldly tales. The works serve as an opportunity to connect with others, finding familiar strings holding us together.

On view through February 6th, 2022.

Sponsored by: Thrive Therapy Space and King Communications

We are so thrilled to have Béatrice Lebreton’s Living Her Truth: Transcending Boundaries exhibit gracing the Museum’s walls.

On view now through May 8th, 2022.

Erie Arts & Culture assisted the Erie Downtown Development Corporation to plan and implement the first-ever Downtown Erie Sculpture Walk, a year-round outdoor exhibition of art.

This privately funded initiative was curated by a panel of local leaders, art enthusiasts, and Downtown stakeholders.

We’re excited to have Flattened Curves by Jennifer Rubin-Gaery on our patio!

Sorrow/Fullness

_Sorrow/Fullness_ discusses the process of mourning and loss from the perspectives of three artists specializing in metalsmithing. The act of wearing a piece of jewelry sets the wearer up for identifying markets that signify their mood, personality, and status in life. This series deals with the idea of loss, grieving, and coping.

_Sorrow/Fullness_ opens October 15th and will be on view through December 22nd.

Sponsored by: Counseling and Assessment Services, LLC, & Burton Quinn Scott Cremation and Funeral Services, and Edinboro University in celebration of ART100

NPAA Biennial

The Northwestern Pennsylvania Art Association (NPAA) will hold its seventh juried biennial in the Customs House from October 1st - December 22, 2021, with a public opening on Gallery Night, October 15th.

The exhibition will be juried by Paolo Ventura, a noted Italian photographer, painter and multimedia artist, whose work has appeared in dozens of museums, galleries and publications as well as the 2011 Venice Biennial.

The NPAA is the area’s oldest professional art association, and recently welcomed seven new members in the the last round of juried applicants. The NPAA annually holds a number of exhibitions; awards the Robert Sawejski Memorial scholarship and NPAA scholarship to several deserving high school graduates pursuing an art degree; and is planning a robust slate of programming for the coming year. Professional artists interested in an NPAA membership are welcome to apply in March 2022; those interested in supporting the NPAA are encouraged to become a Friend by visiting nppaonline.org.
